

lyrics for hey kid:

its summer vacation, and kids all over the nation are shacking up in hotels across the great lakes they're packing up their swim suits and forgetting their hiking boots cause all they wanna do is go down the indoor waterslide well it makes me cry how the kids don't want to go outside standing in line under fluorescent light to go down the indoor waterslide hey kid! how's the view from that plastic tube how's that chlorine scented air theres a sky above that roof there's a great lake waiting out there a waterslide may be thrilling but sos a trail if yr willing theres bears and fish and birds a whole world of the unexpected so for your next vacation here's my recommendation stay in a rustic cabin instead of a big hotel

hey kid! how's the view from that plastic tube
how's that chlorine scented air
theres a sky above that roof
there's a great lake waiting out there

you can learn more in the sun find your own way to have fun theres such little time to spare
there's a great lake waiting out there